

TRANSLATOR DASHBOARD

RESEARCH

CHALLENGE

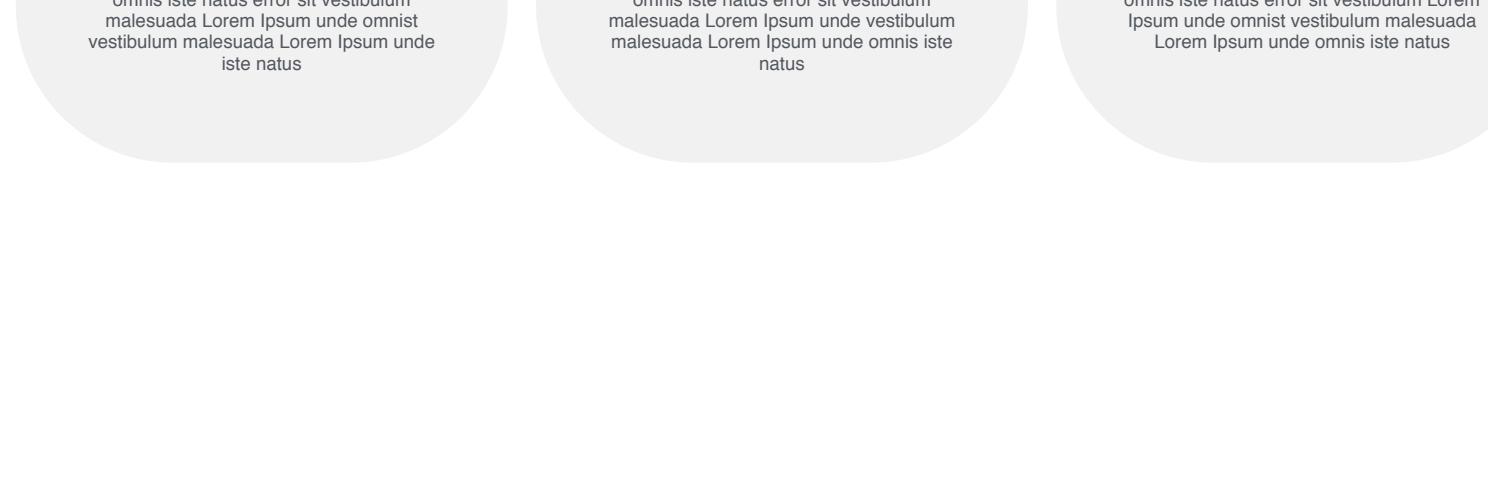

AJE's contractors help researchers around the world to succeed by editing and translating academic papers. Managers and contractors work remotely, and the online dashboard is used to perform critical tasks. Managers indicate that an excessive amount of time is spent in training contractors to use the dashboard.

Also, many critical errors occur as contractors try to work with the platform.

Managers would like to revamp their website.

Behaviors

- Translates outside her primary field

Notes

Hui likes kids and science education so she started a non-profit with a group of friends from grad school. Her schedule is not well-defined so she needs to change her availability settings every often. Hui has done academic work both in Chinese and English, and her translations have great quality. The translation tool that she uses helps her work efficiently. When available, Hui usually claims various papers at the same time and delivers all translations on time. Because she is a high-volume translator and very reliable, managers assign many papers directly to her. However, she prefers group assignments because she can choose the ones with short turnarounds and high compensations. She changes her availability on the website very frequently and wishes she could use an app on her phone.

Goals and Tasks

- To easily select papers with short turnarounds assigned to groups
